Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Care of Young Children A common expression when a child shows a marked resemblance to some near relation is to describe him as a chip of the old block. Now, if a block of marble be subjected to close examination it will be found to consist of countless myriads of particles, welded together into a compact mass. Similarly, a human body is composed of millions of microscopic particles, called cells, from which are built up bone and muscle, nerves, and all its other parts. At first glance, all blocks of marble and all human bodies seem to resemble each other so closely that it is hard to distinguish between them when we see them for the first time. But a more careful examination will in each case reveal peculiarities possessed by each individual, whether block of marble or human body. No two chips off a block are identical, much less are two human beings ever exactly alike. Infinitely minute as are the cells which build up our bodies, nevertheless their characteristics and combinations are influenced in some mysterious way by our ancestors. If we count the Number Of These Ancestors even to the tenth generation only (two parents, four grandparents, eight great-grandparents, and so on), we shall find to our surprise that more than a thousand forbears have been transmitting more or less of their personality to us in the course of about 250 years. Pursue the calculation for a further period of 250 years and our brains will reel at the formidable number of those who have contributed to our make-up, moral, mental, or physical. (See Fig. 1.) Thus, each child, while a...
