This information was used to identify whether correlations exist between these three variables for South African youth. A literature study was conducted and the following hypotheses were developed for study: I. Adolescent females report higher (more severe) levels of body image dissatisfaction than males. II. Depression rates among South African adolescents have a female-to-male ratio of 2:1. III. Depression prevalence rates among South African adolescents are lower than their American counterparts. IV. Adolescent females display higher levels of anxiety than their male counterparts. V. A significant positive correlation exists between levels of body image dissatisfaction and levels of depression. VI. A significant positive correlation exists between levels of body image dissatisfaction and feelings of anxiety. VII. There is a significant positive correlation between levels of depression and anxiety in South African adolescents. The gathering of quantitative data took the form of a structured questionnaire comprising four distinct sections: demographic information, the Body Image Satisfaction scale, the Choate Depression Inventory for Children (CDIC), and the Hospital Anxiety and Depression (HAD) scale. The questionnaire was administered to Grade 8-12 learners (aged 13-19 years old) to three different high school in the area, both independent and public schools. The sample group was randomly selected and yielded 350 completed questionnaires. 152 pp. Englisch.
